LEAD CHARACTERS

20s. The leader. His features makes him stand out amongst the rest in the slum, especially his light skin - thus, his nickname 'Catire' (blondie). He's as mysterious as he is handsome. A man of a few words, but who has the kind of charm to make people listen and follow his lead. He lives to get his family out of this life of misery and subordination that they have been enduring for years. They depend on him, and he is nothing without them

29. La Negra's son, although not by blood. She found him in the trash when Peluche was a newborn. He has dark features and more than one scar on his face. Dedicated to his family, Peluche adores la Negra and is a faithful follower of Catire's plans. A fairly calm guy, who has managed to grow up without having very high expectations of life.

10. He looks just like his mom, La Negra. Prominent dark features and nappy hair. At his young age, Bebe has seen more than some in their 50s. The ghetto has taught him to be strong and to grow up faster than most kids. He adores Catire and dreams of being like him, which will eventually play against him. After all, there's just so much you can do to keep kids away from the violent world of the ghetto.

LEAD CHARACTERS

50s. Dark skin and nappy, curly hair. Every wrinkle on her face is a smack that life has given her, and life has struck hard. She is Catire's aunt; the only sister to his deceased mom. Mother of Bebe and adoptive mom of Peluche. La Negra is the lioness of this family, always ready to devour anyone in order to protect her cubs. Her character is stern, and she moves and breathes with a mystical aura around her.

18. Slim, tanned body. Bleached hair. Quite pretty. Her street roots are still noticeable on her and she's not looking to hide them. Scarlet is Fran's younger sister, although they're nothing alike in character. She is a kind, bubbly, good-hearted girl. Fran makes her stay at home most of the time, as an attempt to keep the ghetto's claws away from her. But she doesn't always listen.

Leader of the gang "The Vultures". Fran is a true psychopath. He controls the area where Catire and his family live, and constantly uses them as bait for his criminal acts. Fran is explosive and ruthless. For him, 'respect' isn't enough. He enjoys people being afraid of him, and under that concept, he stomps all over the residents of his area of the slum. He has earned his position through bullets and betrayal.
